What happens in Sacramento – like the FAST Act – or Austin or Albany today, happens in 25 states next year and in Washington, DC the year after that. We need to focus on identify those emerging trends, to help lawmakers keep up to date on what's coming next, and to spotlight the new ideas that will drive public policy from the local levels all the way to Capitol Hill. The Veteran Workforce: An Interview with Assistant Secretary James Rodriguez, Department of Labor, Veterans' Employment and Training Service

Addressing workforce shortages and readiness is one of the biggest challenges facing franchising as we collectively move beyond COVID. The U.S. Department of Labor is also focused on this issue through their Veterans' Employment and Training Service (VETS) as they work to prepare America's veterans, service members and their spouses for meaningful careers. Assistant Secretary James D. Rodriguez will be joining us for a one-on-one interview to discuss how, when, and where the VETS program is preparing military-connected professionals career opportunities and how the franchising sector can continually deepen its efforts to support this community.

Speaker: James D. Rodriguez, U.S. Department of Labor's Assistant Secretary for Veterans' Employment and Training Service (VETS)

Expanding Opportunity for Veterans and Military-Connected Families

Did you know that 200,000 transitioning service members enter the workforce each year? And that military and veteran connected families represent 17% of American consumers, spending $1 trillion annually. Franchising and the IFA have long been leaders and partners in support of veterans and the military-connected communities, with our focus on raising awareness of the opportunity provided through franchising and its positive impact on communities. For 30 years, IFA has worked closely with public, private, and non-profit organizations that share our mission to advance veteran entrepreneurship. This session will bring representatives from all of these stakeholders together for a timely discussion on how we double down on our collective efforts to provide opportunities to veterans and their families through ownership, workforce development, and giving back through the powerful vehicle of franchising.

Hear from U.S. Senator Mike Braun, who was essential to standing up for franchise businesses toward the U.S. Senate defeat of David Weil's nomination earlier this year. You won't want to miss his insight into one of franchising's biggest advocacy wins.

Senator Braun spent his career building a small business into a national company in his hometown of Jasper, Indiana, before finally getting fed up with business-as-usual in D.C. and running for the Senate to bring Hoosier common sense and straight talk from the private sector to the waste and gridlock of Congress.
